A Day in the Life

Dear Friends,

Hi! My name is Ida Kate Wilson. I am Pastor Ben's youngest daughter. I'd like to tell you a little bit about myself and my older sister Isabella. I was born on December 14, 1990. Every Ghanaian is given an Akan name, that is like a tribal or native name. Our tribe is the "Fantse Tribe", and they give names based on the day you were born. My Akan name is "Maame Afua" because I was born on a Friday. I am a shy, somewhat reserved person, but I do like new people once I get to know them. I love to listen to all types of music, although not jazz, and I love to read! I also love watching movies, except horror movies; they really freak me out! Isabella and I both attended Mfantseman Girls Senior High School, where our Mother, Julie, is the personal secretary in the Headmistress' office. I am now in my third year of college and will be graduating early next year. I am majoring in banking and finance. It is my hope and dream to be a certified banker or financial manager.

My sister Isabella and I are very close. We are more like best friends, even though we have best friends, respectively. Isabella was born on July 31, 1986. Her Akan name is "Baaba" because she was born on a Thursday. Isabella is not shy at all! She is very jovial and can be very funny when she wants to make people laugh. We share a lot. She also loves to listen to music and watch movies. Even though she is 4 years older, we talk about everything and give each other advice. Isabella studied to be a teacher at Wesley College in a town called Kumasi in the Ashanti region of Ghana. She studied French and Moral Studies and received her teaching diploma after four years. Isabella is now working on her bachelor's degree, and will get that in May of 2012. We look forward to her graduation and continued success and happiness in her life to come!

Love - Ida
